NEW YORK, November 3.-Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, who was Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, will sail tomorrow for Europe on the Lusitania with a staff of four surgeons and fifteen trained nurses to establish at her own expense a large field hospital behind the firing line in northern France. Ten motor ambulances, a large quantity of medical supplies and clothing sufficient for 3,000 men, women and children, all purchased by Mrs. Whitney as a part of her undertaking, were shipped to France last Saturday.

Wounded soldiers of the warring nations will be treated at the field hospital, which is to be conducted in co-operation with the American ambulance hospital, now managed by Drs. De Bauchet and Joseph A. Blake, near Paris.

The field hospital is to be known as a unit in the American ambulance hospital service, and it is understood Mrs. Whitney is prepared to finance from her own personal fortune other units, should they be deemed necessary.

France, Russia and Great Britain now will not only demand reparation for the warlike operations of the Turkish fleet in the Black sea, but will insist that Turkey's entire fleet, or, at any rate, the cruisers Goeben, Breslau and Hamidieh, be put out of commission until after the war, Turkey's security being guaranteed in the meantime.

This would give Russia such superiority in the Black sea that there would be no danger of Turkish raids. It is suggested also that demobilization of the Turk sh army may now be demanded, which would mean that those troops which have crossed the Egyptian, frontier must be withdrawn.

"There seems to be a long way to go before diplomatic relations between the Ottoman government and the allies can be resumed. An added difficulty to the situation is that the ambassadors of the powers have left Constantinople, which will make it troublesome to ascertain whether the whole Turkish cabinet concurs in any agreement reached. "Bulgaria, which had been asked to choose the side on which she would fight, has commenced to mobilize her second-line troops."

Justient might be reached through a complete apology by Turkey, payment of an indemnity, repatriation of the German officers and crews, disarmanent of the cruisers Goeben and Bresiau and demobilization of the Turkish arm, In diplomatic quarters, however, the opinion is expressed that such a settlement would be sure to be rejected by Turkish chauvinists. passports the Turkish minister of agriculture called on a certain neutral diplomat and asked him to go to the diplomat and asked him to go to the Russian envoy to ascertain if an apology by Turkey for the bombardment of Russian ports in the Black sea would be accepted and would pacify Russia. The neutral diplomat saw the Russian ambassador, who said that his instructions to leave Constantinople were absolute, but that when all German sailors, soldiers and officers were dismissed summarily from the Turkish army and navy, and when he had been advised of their departure from Turkey he would return and resume diplomatic relations with the Ottoman empire.

Later in the day the Turkish minister of agriculture called on the same neutral diplomat to learn if an apology would be accepted by the British government. The same reply was made to him, and the Russian, French and British ambassadors left on a special train

From the reports dispatched by Mr. Morganthau before cable communication with Constantinople was severed late Saturday night, and from the Turkish apology forwarded to London, a ray of hope that Turkey would take into account her already demoralized economic condition and maintain her neutrality was apparent in official circles. The entry of Turkey into war was viewed here with some concern on account of the possibilities of anti-Christian uprisings and danger to American missionaries. ious to leave the Ottoman empire.

The refusal of the porte to listen to that proposal when made by the Russian, French and British ambassadors before their departure from Constantiniple seemed to diplomatists here to leave little doubt that the existence of a state of war between Turkey and the triple entente would soon formally be recognized by the powers.

HYATTSVILLE, Md., November 3 .-When the polls opened at 8 o'clock this morning throughout Prince Georges county long lines of voters were waiting to cast their ballots. This was especially true in the districts contiguous to the District of Columbia, many of the voters in this territory being employed by the federal government. The indications are that practically a full vote will be cast. The democrats will vote solidly for Senator John Walter Smith, but it looks as though Richard A. Johnson, candidate for Congress from the fifth district, will be slightly cut. A few democrats who supported Representative Frank O. Smith in the primaries are still peeved, it is said, and will vote for Sydney E. Mudd, the republican candidate. The progressive The party affiliation at the recen
